“What is there
to life if a man cannot hear the lonely cry of a whippoorwill or the arguments of the frogs around a pond at night?”

A photograph of three children crossing a shallow stream using large, flat stepping stones. The child on the left is a boy in a light blue shirt and dark pants, standing on the first stone. The child in the middle is wearing a bright red hooded raincoat and is on the second stone. The child on the right is wearing a grey hooded raincoat and dark pants, stepping onto the third stone. The water is calm, reflecting the children and the surrounding green foliage. The background is filled with dense trees and bushes, some with autumn-colored leaves.
